

Laura Brennan has worked as a pitch consultant on hundreds of projects for television, film, start-ups, tech companies, and nonprofits. She has taught workshops to students and alums of colleges including Yale, Columbia, Boston University, UCLA, and USC. Most of all, she has helped everyone from producers to CEOs, students to artists, learn how to build, nurture, and tap into their own vibrant networks.

Laura believes your greatest strength is authenticity, connecting with others through what lights you up. Her book, Hate Networking Less, is full of tips and strategies to make networking your superpower. Learn more at PitchingPerfectly.com
